- Eligible CLOs are those that went effective before 31 December 2022, and were still within their reinvestment period at that date
- New CLOs are those that went effective in 2023
- Best CLO manager categories are calculated using the average ranks of all a managers' CLOs of that CLO type
- US boutique manager is defined as a manager with five or fewer eligible US BSL CLOs under management
- European boutique manager is defined as a manager with four or fewer eligible European CLOs under management
- The redeemed CLO categories include all CLOs with a redemption date between 1 January 2023 and 31 December 2023
- Open-ended CLO funds listed on Creditflux's hedge fund website launched before 2023 are eligible, and ranked by a blend of total returns, liquidity and sortino ratio. The categories are then split by AUM above or below $150m as 31-Dec-23.
- Best private closed-end funds are closed-ended CLO funds that are not publicly listed and have full 2023 coverage, ranked by IRR.
- Best public closed-end funds are closed-ended CLO funds that are publicly listed and launched before 2023, ranked by NAV per share calculations.
